What are some Sources of concern when it comes to personal data and privacy?

- ▶ Increased ease of accessing personal data stored electronically, and associated with this, increased risk of information breaches¹
- ▶ Improper or unsecured circulation of personal data on social media²

Understand the basic principles that govern privacy laws.

- ▶ In most countries, privacy laws are generally based on the following basic principles:
 - ▶ Correctness of the information collected
 - ▶ No undisclosed purposes for the information collected
 - ▶ Security of the information kept
 - ▶ No undisclosed organisations or sources utilising or processing the information
 - ▶ The rights of individuals who would be involved in the process
 - ▶ Accountability of the organisations collecting the information¹

Do more in-depth Research on data protection and privacy with trusted resources.

- ▶ Search for trusted sources of information from NLB's OneSearch (<http://search.nlb.gov.sg/Search>) using subject headings such as:
 - ▶ Data protection - Law and legislation - Singapore
 - ▶ Privacy, Right of - Singapore
- ▶ When searching for information on personal data protection on the Internet, always use authoritative sources, such as official news websites
- ▶ When in doubt, consult relevant authorities like the Personal Data Protection Commission (PDPC)³

Evaluate how well your privacy is protected from different angles.

- ▶ Evaluate from time to time if your personal data with organisations is well protected
- ▶ Check if you are doing enough to protect your personal data stored in electronic or portable devices, and data provided through online transactions or correspondences
